Terry Goddard to Teach Internet Safety at Back to School Event

(Phoenix, Ariz. - August 12, 2005) Attorney General Terry Goddard will attend the Niños Seguros, Seguro Que Sí, Back to School & Safety Fair Saturday in Phoenix to promote his Internet Safety program. Goddard's presentation begins at 12:30 p.m.

The Niños Seguros, Seguro Que Sí, Back to School Safety Fair is in its first year. Its goal is to help Valley children start the new school year excited and ready to learn. Families will have an opportunity to participate in interactive activities, watch live entertainment and receive information on education, health and safety issues.

What: Internet Safety Presentation

When: August 13, 2005
12:30 – 1:30p.m.

Free Admission

Where: Phoenix Civic Plaza, Hall E
Downtown Phoenix

Why: Goddard kicked off a major Internet Safety Initiative in 2003, in an effort to provide information to parents and children about how to safely travel the cyber super highway. Goddard partnered with the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children and the Arizona Boys & Girls Clubs Arizona Alliance to develop this important information.

For more information about the Internet Safety program, please visit the Attorney General's Web site at www.azag.gov.
